DREAM13PRESS Established to Fulfill Self-Publishing Needs

CHICAGO, IL - In an effort to help her uncle get his first novel, Starkill - The Son, published, Rhonda Louise Norman, a Brooklyn born, Chicago based entrepreneur saw an opportunity to help other struggling writers make their dreams come true. She founded DREAM13PRESS, a small press self-publishing company, in 2007.

Rhonda's vision for DREAM13PRESS is to provide affordable self-publishing services for first time writers, poets and artists. She has expanded her base company, Dream13, into website design, web hosting and graphic design to further provide authors with materials needed to promote their books.

After the first pressing of Starkill - The Son, Rhonda went on to form relationships with HarmonArt Media to produce their graphic novels. She is currently working with G.BanksEntertainment in New York City to produce a book version of the feature film EYE WAS BLIND, winner of "The Best Drama Feature Film Genre award" in the 2005 New York International Independent Film and Video Festival.
